May 5, 2011

CHARLESTON, SC-Beth Palmer, an attorney with Rosen, Rosen & Hagood, was honored by the South Carolina Bar for successfully completing the 2010-2011 Leadership Academy, a program offered by the Young Lawyer Division of the South Carolina Bar. The goal of the Leadership Academy is to enhance the professional growth and leadership skills of selected members of the Bar to prepare them to make greater contributions to the legal profession and to the community. Participants in the program attended intimate classroom sessions on a monthly basis for a five month period with influential members of the Bar, including the President of the Bar and legislators. The sessions exposed the participants to many of the current issues affecting the Bar and provided a forum for the exchange of ideas.

Beth joined Rosen, Rosen & Hagood in 2005 and practices in the areas of business and commercial litigation, employment law, school law, and personal injury. She has been admitted to practice in the state of South Carolina and is a member of the Charleston Bar Association, the South Carolina Bar, and the American Bar Association. She received her Bachelor's of Arts degree in Political Science from the University of North Carolina at Chapel Hill and earned her law degree from the University of South Carolina School of Law.
