Experienced Traumatic Brain Injury Attorneys in South Carolina

When a traumatic brain injury (TBI) changes your life or the life of a loved one, you need experienced legal representation that understands the complex medical and legal challenges ahead.

Rosen Hagood's team of traumatic brain injury (TBI) attorneys possess the capacity to take effective legal action when a TBI leads to litigation—under the conviction that the severity of an injury is not always an indication of how significant the consequences will be.

Understanding the Impact of Brain Injuries

Every brain injury is unique. We understand that people who incur even “mild” brain injuries often suffer life-altering consequences and that negligent or malicious parties should be held accountable. Some of these life-altering consequences include:

- Memory loss and cognitive difficulties
- Personality changes
- Depression and anxiety
- Loss of motor function
- Speech and language problems
- Ongoing medical expenses
- Lost wages and earning capacity

Comprehensive Legal Support for Brain Injury Cases

TBI litigation is complex and demands both seasoned legal representation and the expertise of medical professionals. In some TBI cases, the injury is obvious; however, it is more common that relevant medical issues need to be thoroughly examined and evaluated.

We collaborate with trusted professionals to build strong cases:

- Neurologists and brain injury specialists
- Life care planning experts
- Vocational rehabilitation specialists
- Economic loss analysts
- Medical imaging experts
- Accident reconstruction specialists

Supporting Families Through Brain Injury Recovery

Rosen Hagood's brain injury lawyers are committed to the clients they serve. We recognize that a brain injury affects the whole family, not just the victim.

We also understand the financial drain as well as the physical and emotional toll clients face after suffering from a brain injury. Rosen Hagood is equipped with powerful resources enabling the firm's attorneys to fully investigate the details of an incident, advise on strategy, and leverage the knowledge of medical and other experts to bring your case to the best possible resolution.
